

TITLE IX TRAINING INITIATIVE

Central State University is committed to providing its students, faculty, and staff a campus community that is safe, secure, and free of sexual harassment, sexual violence, and other misconduct. It is important that as a community we examine our core values and conduct ourselves with dignity and respect for everyone, recognizing and appreciating our differences and act accordingly in our daily interactions. We must be committed to educating ourselves and be dedicated to ensuring that aggressive and detrimental acts of sexual harassment, sexual violence and discrimination do not find a place in our living, learning, and working environment. Every member of our community deserves to feel safe and secure. We owe it to all members of our community to work together to truly embrace a living, learning, and working environment that is inclusive and respectful.

To initiate this goal, Central State University challenges its students, faculty, and staff to broaden their perspective on understanding and preventing sexual harassment and misconduct as well as gain additional insight on evolving into a community where diversity, equity, and inclusion thrives.
